

I decided to ditch, my scale dropdown, because I was having too much trouble with it. SO I just decided to add buttons to trigger certain scales. I feel comfortable about everything that's going on within the code right now though. Everything else should work as it should. I also decided to finish the note off message function. It should work. It sends note off messages across the board with 0 velocity.